

Family Jobs Spin Wheel

This Family Jobs Spin Wheel helps families to look at what jobs need to be done within the family and decide who can do what job.

The idea is for the wheel to support the family to achieve all the household jobs by using a fun system.

Hopefully, each person will be given a different job each time they spin the wheel. This will help everyone to learn new skills and will prevent the boredom of being given the same job every week.

There are two wheels in this resource. The first wheel is already completed with jobs. The family can use it for the first week or month and see how it works. The second wheel, however, is blank and can be completed by the family. This will help the family to think about which jobs are important to them and which ones are appropriate for the age range of their children.

You could ask the young people to list what jobs they think are important and then ask the adults to do the same. This will give you a good indication of whether the young people understand what tasks are involved with running a house. It will help them to grow in independence and learn key life skills that they will need when they are adults and live independently.

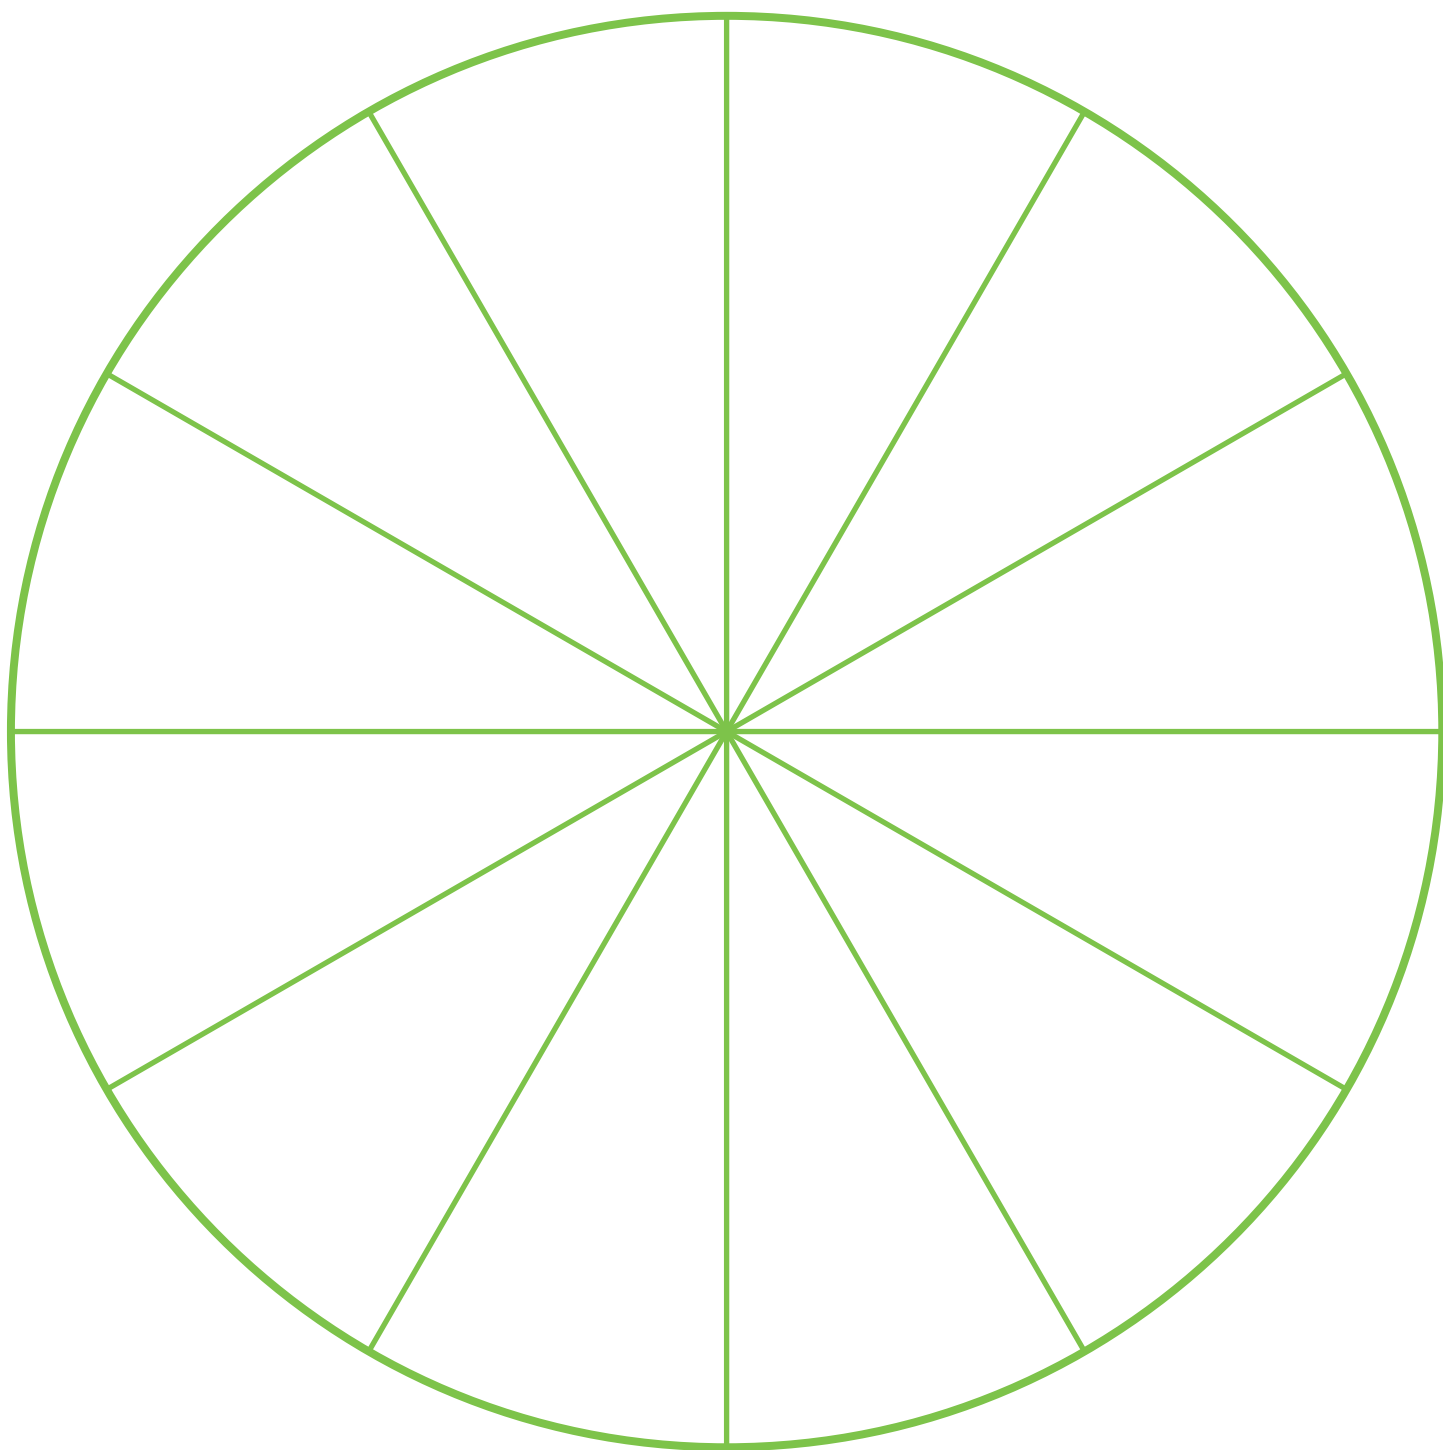

The completed spin wheel is targeted at general jobs in the household and would be suitable for most children and young adults.
